

CESR Conference 23 February 2009 in Paris

Preparing for the future: where to now for regulation in the field of securities?

At a key point for financial markets, this conference is an opportunity for you to discuss and influence the current debate regarding the supervisory structures and arrangements of financial markets, particularly in Europe. The aim is to explore what regulatory changes securities supervisors may need to consider in the light of recent events, and to evaluate, from a European perspective, what more needs to be done to create an integrated Single Market. The full day programme provides you with numerous opportunities to interact with the speakers and other participants.

Key speakers for this high level event include:

- Jean-Claude Trichet, President of the ECB,
- Pervenche Berès Chair of the ECON, European Parliament,
- Jörgen Holmquist, Director General of the DG Internal Market, European Commission (To be confirmed),
- Antonio Borges, Chairman of the Hedge Funds Standards Board,
- Jaime Caruana, Director of the Monetary and Capital Markets Department, IMF (To be confirmed),
- Deven Sharma, Chairman of Standard and Poors,
- Ethiopis Tafara, Director of the Office of International Affairs, SEC, and
- A large number of CESR Members.

The event will take place in the former French stock exchange, the Palais Brongniart, situated Place de la Bourse, 75002 Paris, France. Further information and registration details are available via the following link.
